

The background of the image is a still life arrangement of various dried herbs and flowers. In the foreground, there are several light-colored burlap bags filled with dried botanicals: one with bright pink rose petals, one with purple and yellow dried flower heads, and one with purple rose buds. Behind these, a wooden crate is filled with a dense mass of dried yellow flowers. In the background, more fresh-looking herbs with green leaves and purple or yellow flowers are visible, some standing upright and others lying down. The overall scene is set on a light-colored wooden surface.
